A beautiful memo game for thinking, playing and talking to each other.

Which pair of feelings belong together? This matching game with extra-large cards invites children to talk about their feelings and to recognize and understand everyday emotional situations. The eight pairs include among other emotions joy, fear and worry. In a playful way, this game not only trains the memory but also introduces children from the age of four to the world of emotions in a lighthearted way. Children will relate to the depicted animals and start to open up about their own feelings and experiences.
